The Banquer Years*

A Tribute to The Banquet Years . . .

"The French call it la belle époque—the good old days. For Paris they were the Banquet Years. The banquet had become the supreme rite. The cultural capital of the world celebrated its vitality over a long table laden with food and wine.

"Deep down at its center of gravity, however, the century turned slowly. Artists who strained forward into the future found that their fresh trail was rarely being followed in a prosperous and complacent France. In response they did what was only natural, they banded together for support. They constituted what we have come to call the avant-garde, a "tradition" of heterodoxy and opposition which defied civilized values in the name of individual consciousness. It amounted to an artistic underground, which began to break through to the surface in the latter part of the Banquet Years.

"Despite its vociferousness and agitation, the avant-garde remains one of the most elusive forces of the Banquet Years. It was neither a place nor a class nor an activity nor a body of work. It was a way of life, both dedicated and frivolous. The seething agitation in Paris during the Banquet Years was not mere local color, but evidence of the most urgent aspirations. Whatever their separate significance, the careers of Rousseau, Satie, Jarry, and Apollinaire illustrate vividly in combination how the long banquet of 1885-1918 honored a special sort of rejuvenation and spiritual revival in the arts."

Roger Shattuck in

The Banquet Years: The Origins of the Avant-Garde in France, 1885 to World War I (Doubleday Anchor Books, 1961)

It is with considerable pleasure that we present, in this Folio, a portion of the "way of life" that was The Banquet Years. During these two weeks, you will find about 20 programs focussing on the work of the composer Erik Satie (1866-1925), the inventor of 'Pataphysics, Alfred Jarry (1873-1907), the poet Guillaume Apollinaire (1880-1918), and on the times which made them and came after them. We would like to express our appreciation to Dr. Roger Shattuck, Professor of Romance Languages at the University of Texas, for permission to freely adapt from his remarkable book, and we would also like to extend thanks to Dr. Robert Haas, Head of the Dept. of Arts and Humanities of UCLA Extension for thoughtfully (and coincidentally) producing the Extension series on The Banquet Years and allowing KPFK to broadcast portions of it. Our thanks too, to Michael Baird of Extension and Carlos Hagen of UCLA's Map Library for making the programs available.

. . . And Virgil Thomson

In this Folio, we also take pleasure in featuring the music and comments of Virgil Thomson. Mr. Thomson, born in the heart of The Banquet Years (1896), is, in the words of Darius Milhaud, "the real American disciple of Erik Satie." During his stay in Los Angeles, where he participated in the UCLA Extension series, Mr. Thomson spoke at length with Music Director William Malloch, and loaned us a number of his private recordings. Ten programs with Mr. Thomson include not only a survey of his musical creativity, but also his art as a performer, conductor and critic. Our thanks to him for making this Banquet complete.

The cover "portraits" are of Alfred Jarry (by Felix Vallotton), Guillaume Apollinaire (by Picasso) and Erik Satie (by himself). Decoration by Paul Burck. Type by Goudy.

8:30 SHOSTAKOVICH'S THIRTEENTH: KPFF is the first station in the Western Hemisphere to broadcast Dimitri Shostakovich's Symphony No 13. This work was banned by the Soviet Government after its premiere. The symphony, for bass-baritone soloist, male chorus and orchestra, is really a cantata of symphonic proportions consisting of settings of the poetry of renegade Soviet poet Yevgeni Yevtushenko. The symphony was ordered revised by USSR authorities because of its use of the famous "Babi Yar," a poem implying that anti-Semitism still exists in Russia today. The symphony is in five movements: Adagio, Allegretto, Adagio, Largo, Allegretto. Soloist Gromadsky and male chorus perform with the Moscow Symphony Orchestra conducted by Kiril Kondrashin.

8:30 THE BANQUET YEARS: Virgil Thomson on Erik Satie. The noted American composer delivers a witty lecture on the eccentric French one, illustrated by three short musical selections. Following the talk, Johanna Harris plays "Bureaucratic Sonatina," and (with Thomson) "Three Pieces in the Shape of a Pear." The program concludes with Mrs. Harris playing Satie's "Sports and Diversions," as Thomson reads his translations of the amusing poems which accompany each musical fragment. Recorded and mastered by Carlos Hagen, this was the fourth in the UCLA Banquet Years series. (MAY 17)
